Washington, D.C. – Congressman Baron Hill released the following statement after Senate passage of a bill that would extend expiring energy, business, and individual tax benefits.

“I want to express my continued support for the efforts by Majority Leader Hoyer and Ways and Means Chairman Rangel to ensure that the tax extenders legislation is paid-for. While the Senate-passed bill attempts to follow PAYGO rules, it does not fully comply with this principle. I look forward to once again passing a fully PAYGO compliant tax extender bill and call on the Senate Republicans to join the House to ensure that these critical tax benefits do not expire.”
